SUBJECT: Renotification of Regulated Waste

Dear Mr. Huitink:

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is in the process of updating your facility's hazardous waste file. Based upon your recent biennial report submission to EPA, as required by the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), your facility may no longer be a large quantity generator of hazardous waste as EPA records currently indicate.

To assist EPA in the process of having current and accurate information on file, EPA requests that you review the hazardous waste generator status of your facility. Upon completion of this review, EPA requests that your facility submit an updated notification form indicating the current RCRA status of your facility. A copy of this notification form and instruction booklet are enclosed for your possible use.

Please note that the EPA ID number assigned to this facility is valid for only the facility and activities specified on the form on file at the EPA. This number is also valid for the location specified on the form. Changes in location, ownership or operational control, or changes in activities may require submittal of a revised notification to EPA prior to such change.
